

Susan Marx

The Art School is a very rare resource in New York City. Its location on the fifth floor, with its many windows which allow the natural light in--is very important for artists who attend faithfully. It would be more than a great shame to lose that.